

Executive Summary

This report goes over the ScottyAB/RootBeer project and the current state of the project at its latest, 335th week. So far there have been over 850 different touches to the project with Scott-Alexander-Bown leading most of the touches with Mathew Rollings having just about the same amount of touches done. These two members have been the most active in the project so far.

Only one file has been updated since July of 2021, 'app/src/main/java/com/scottyab/rootbeer/sample/CheckForRootWorker.kt'. As the scatterplot shows, there was more activity before indicating that the project is near completion.

Finding this information was a matter of going through the GitHub API and obtaining the list of changes done throughout the project. Through this method, it was possible to see which files were changed, along with whoever made the changes and the exact date and time it was done. By using the website's API in such a fashion, it gives very useful information as to the progress of the project over time.
