Executive Summary, 1/26/2024

Here is the 1/26/2024, ScottyAB/RootBeer report and with it is the Github Repo. There are currently a total of 177 files with 32 authors and it has been 350 weeks since the initial start of the project. Mr. Scott Alander-Bown is our most hard-working developer. He has been committing the most and has changed the most files throughout the RootBeer project. Along with Mr. Scott, Mathew Rollings is our second most productive developer. Both have been modifying the most files too. In recent weeks, most commits have been from Mr. Scott.

There are a couple of developers that have left our project, and they were Litrik De Roy, leocadiotine, Antonio, and many others. Additionally, almost half of the 177 files have not been touched for many years. There were many gaps between each commit and the files that were touched had commits like fixing bugs, updating repository icon, migration to CMake, and converting samples to Kotlin.

A couple git commands that were useful in our project would be the following gits: branch, checkout, add, commit, and push. These were the main commands that were used in our project. I particularly liked the three most used commands like git add, git commit, and git push, since they are vital to any project.